

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFATORY NOTE.

THE present volume, treating generally of the Records of the Middle Temple, is intended as preliminary to others containing a translation of the "Minutes of Parliament," with an Index, under the superintendence of Mr. C. Trice Martin, of the Public Record Office.

The Editor, whilst wholly responsible for its contents, desires to express his great obligation to Mr. John Hutchinson, the Librarian of the Middle Temple, for most valuable assistance, especially in the preparation of the Index, the correction of the proof sheets, and the supplying of some of the footnote annotations.

THE MIDDLE TEMPLE RECORDS.

THE following is an Abstract of the various classes of Records of the Middle Temple which commence prior to 1800 :—

(1) Minutes of Parliament. (a)

These are contained in a number of volumes marked with the letters of the Alphabet, A 1, D, etc., dating from the year 1501. Those covering the period down to 1703 have their entries in Latin (now translated), the subsequent volumes are in English. One volume of the Series, that containing the entries between the years 1524 and 1551, has unfortunately been lost. Otherwise the sequence is complete down to the present time.

(2) Index to Minutes.

Of these there are two volumes very full and complete, covering the period from 1501 to 1775 ; the first containing alphabetical entries from A to M, the second from N to Z. A third volume continues the Index from 1776 to 1840 (with others subsequent).

Besides, there are three odd volumes covering roughly the overlapping periods from 1600 to 1716, 1607 to 1787, and 1777 to 1820 respectively.

(3) Rough Minutes.

There are twelve books of these, containing entries between the years 1747 and 1804 (with others in sequence from that date).

(a) To appear in subsequent volumes.

(4) Admissions. (a)

Books of Admissions to the House and Chambers, marked by letters and numbers similarly to the Books of Minutes, have been kept regularly since the year 1658. Previous to that date the Admissions are to be found in the Minutes of Parliament. A complete collection of Admissions to the House from 1501 to 1884 was made by Mr. Joseph Foster in chronological arrangement in two volumes, with an Alphabetical Index in a third volume. Besides this Index there are three previous Alphabetical Lists covering the periods 1600 to 1700, 1700 to 1830, and 1831 to 1881, respectively.

(5) Deeds and Leases.

Of these there are a number dating from the year 1606, copies of which are in books marked 12, 13, 14.

(6) Account Books. (b)

Of these there are "Bill and Receipt Books" from 1637 to 1870, Day, Journal, or Cash Books from 1711 to 1896 (with others subsequent), Members' Ledgers (Barristers and Students) from 1747 to 1820 (with others following to the present time). Also Commons' Ledgers, Rental Books, Bankers' Pass-Books, Inventory of Plate.

(7) Miscellaneous.

Nineteen tin boxes and thirty-one wooden boxes of Papers. Master Worsley's MS. Book, (c) and three copies.

(a) Not yet printed, but for a selection see volume entitled Notable Middle Templars, by John Hutchinson, Librarian (1902).

(b) Extracts given in this volume.

(c) Edited and published by Master Hopwood (1896).

INTRODUCTION.

THE Four Inns of Court—Gray's Inn, Lincoln's Inn, and the Inner and Middle Temples—have been so important in English history, and so distinguished by the men they have produced, that anything which can be ascertained of their origin and action through four or five centuries must be of interest to those who desire to trace the story of institutions influential amid civil and foreign wars, revolutions, and social conflicts, in developing the resources and moulding the fortune of the nation, until it has become the widest empire, the most potent, and, it is hoped, the most beneficial for mankind which the world has ever known. Mere voluntary associations in the first instance, formed by a few men gathered together in different places for mutual convenience, always rivals, though amicably governing themselves by Rules and Orders suggested by the needs of the hour, owing little to legislation, occasionally, it is true, controlled by the assumed or conferred jurisdiction of the rulers of the State, they formed and educated a class able to initiate, construe, and improve the common or the enacted law, and fearlessly to advocate the rights of the individual. In them thought and independence were cultivated. The why and the wherefore were boldly asked and argued. To courage they were educated. Audacity and liberty grew up among them to oppose the lawless violence of the powerful, and to accomplish the downfall of despotism. The same spirit engendered and cherished among them produced Members of the Societies on both sides of political thought to furnish opposite views as assertors of liberty, supporters of law, maintainers of prerogative, and defenders of constituted authority.

The chief source of our information as to the origin of these institutions, especially of the Temples, though not abundant, is the Origines Juridiciales of Dugdale.

The design which has been followed in preparing this Calendar of the Middle Temple has been to secure, first, the translation of the Minutes of Parliament between 1502 and 1703 by the competent skill and knowledge of Mr. C. T. Martin, a well-known authority in the deciphering, translation, and understanding of Ancient Records. The course pursued by him has been to translate faithfully the text, with such omission of repetition as may tend to clearness, though this has been practised but to small extent, omitting nothing of interest, and preserving faithfully all names of Members admitted or prominently appearing, as the history of the Society proceeds. In the midst of the barbarous Latin entries occur many passages in English, plain and vernacular.

From the result of his labour the Editor has faithfully extracted every passage of general interest, perhaps with too minute care, and arranged the extracts according to date of the particular Parliaments held from time to time of the Society. The word Parliament has advanced in dignity and acquired a signification which may cause the non-legal reader, if such a one may peruse this work, surprise, when used as the designation of the presiding Council of an Inn of Court. It has come down from an antiquity prior to any existing record. The word Parliament is evidently derived from the French language, which pervaded all our earlier laws and legal proceedings from the time of the Conquest. It may have been in early times a familiar description of an Assembly discussing and talking over the interests and government of a Society, or have in this instance been borrowed from the name of the renowned Parliament of England.

The Records in question, with the exception of the first volume, which is evidently a fair copy of pre-existing materials, appear to have been made from time to time contemporaneously with the deliberations in the form of Minutes hurriedly written in different hands, with interpolations occasionally afterwards, largely in Latin with passages in English confined chiefly to the Resolutions or Orders come to, and unfortunately rarely commemorating matters of contemporary history, domestic or public, such as would now deeply interest us.

In further illustration of these Minutes, the following paper by Master James Anderson, a most active Treasurer in 1860, may here be appropriately inserted. It is a careful description of the books, and contains other interesting matter.

“The oldest of the Records in the possession of the Society (Vol. A) contains the Minutes of Parliaments between the 16 Henry VII. and 16 Henry VIII. (1501 to 1524); but in the Minutes during that period there are various references to earlier Records. The first entry in Vol. A shows this very clearly. It is a Minute of John Brooke to be Treasurer of the Society. This Parliament was held ‘Septima Proxima die ante festum Translationis Sanct. Thomæ Martyris (7 July) anno regni Regis Henrici Septimi sexto decimo,’ and the entry is this—‘Johannes Brooke electus est Thesaurarius Medii Templi et assumpsit super se officium illud, et postea, in quindecima Sancti Michaelis Archangeli, extunc proxima sequente, Guillielmus Bollyngs ultimus Thesaurarius, liberavit eidem Johanni librum constitutionis ejusdem loci, cum Rotulis.’

“Brooke held the office of Treasurer for three years, having twice been re-elected. He may have delivered the ‘Liber’ to his successor, John Muscat. I have not, however, found any reference in Vol. A or in any of the subsequent Minute Books to this 'Liber Constitutionis'; but the 'Rotuli' prior to 1501 are occasionally referred to. Whether the 'Liber Constitutionis' was given to Muscat or not, or to any of the succeeding Treasurers, is not apparent from the Records.

"The date of the last entry in Vol. A is 3 Feb., 1524, and the next entry in the Minutes in point of time is of date 13 Feb., 1551, Vol. D. The Records for the intervening twenty-seven years are missing (as well as those prior to 1501). They probably formed Vols. B and C, in immediate sequence to Vol. A. Their loss very likely occurred during the time Vol. D was being used as a Record, as the two vols. next after 'D' are respectively designated 'C' and 'B.' (a)

"There does not appear to be any other loss of our Records. The Minute Books proceed consecutively from 1551, at which date 'D' begins, to the current volume without any blank.

"Although the 'Order' (of the House) as to the duration of the office of Treasurer (limiting it to one year) is dated so late as 1596, yet the Treasurers, preceding that date, were annually elected; but they were capable of re-election, and were, in most cases, re-elected. For example, Plowden was re-elected five times, Chief Justice Popham seven times, Thomas Moore four times. Treasurers were never elected for a plurality of years. The Order of 1596, however, had the effect of preventing re-election, and, practically, giving the office to the Masters of the Bench in rotation. After its date, the office accrued, year after year, to the next Master in rotation, excepting for the years 1605 and 1609, when, for special reasons affecting the Treasurer for the time being, the office endured on each occasion for two years, and also excepting the five years from 1641, when Richard Parker was elected Treasurer.

(a) They were lost, as appears by Master Worsley's Book, before his time (1734).

"As Master Worsley, who was Treasurer for the year 1733, states in his Manuscript History of the Middle Temple, (a) Parker was continued Treasurer five years 'by reason the business of the House was interrupted by the Civil Wars.'" (b)

It may be fitting to notice here that some claim was made at one time, at a late period, on the part of the Inner Temple to a precedency over the Middle Temple. This it will appear has been declared baseless by Judicial authority, as appears repeatedly in the following extracts and Records; and, if it were necessary to argue the matter afresh, there is abundant evidence of the perfect equality of the two Inns. It is commonly believed that all the lawyers of the Temple at one time formed one Society. As to when they thought proper to separate and divide, if that were so, there is no evidence to instruct us. About the year 1500 the division had in fact beyond all doubt happened, possibly long before, as frequent mention is made of the Inner Temple in the Paston Letters about 1440, the reign of Henry VI. At the former date begin the records somewhat methodised of each of the Inns. In this fact there is a presumption of equality. In the division of the territory of the Temple there is the striking evidence that, though to the Inner Temple a larger number of square yards was allotted, yet their space was evidently less occupied by building, while the Middle Temple received a smaller area with the more valuable property of buildings with which it has always been crowded. The Inner Temple has in the course of time by building equalised this peculiarity. The buildings of the Middle Temple are as a rule much older, or renewed where old ones existed. In their

(a) Already mentioned. See List of Records, p. x.

Courts, sun-dials of the primitive kind, needed before the date when clocks could proclaim the hour, abounded, with erudite mottoes, and have been perpetuated. Only one of these is remembered in the Inner Temple, long since removed, in Crown Office Row, near to the remnant of the ancient buildings of the Templars which fell to the share of the Inner Temple.

The Middle Temple at the first had an ancient Hall standing between Pump Court and Elm Court, until in the growth of the Society the present famous Hall was erected in 1570. The Inner Temple was, down to a recent period, contented with a small Hall, long inadequate, it is true, until they erected their present magnificent structure. Mr. Petyt, A.D. 1701, (a) speaks of the separation, mentions "the old Hall" and "that a new Hall was then erected, which is now the Inner Temple Hall."

The Church, the noble, most interesting, and ancient creation of the Knights Templar, was equally divided from east to west, the North Aisle to the Middle, the South to the Inner Temple. There is no sign of inferiority here. The Middle Temple assumed, it is true, at a later date the ensign of the Ancient Templars, the Lamb bearing the Banner, while the Inner Temple, acquiescing in that choice, adopted an heraldic device which they have ennobled by its long connection with their distinguished House. Throughout the Records and Accounts many instances occur of expenditure incurred in the interest of both the Societies, paid in moieties by both Houses.

At a much later date in the eighteenth century, A.D. 1732, to put an end to many questions which arose as to boundaries owing to the mixed and minute interposition of the property of each Inn, an elaborate deed of arrangement and partition, with map of the exact territory of each, was prepared, and is the lasting decisive authority on the subject of what belongs to either.

(a) Inner Temple Records, p. xviii.

It may seem of little importance to notice such a claim as that referred to, but a Middle Templar may be forgiven the endeavour by a hasty but, it is hoped, a correct, though imperfect, detail of the evidence bearing on the subject to set at rest an unfounded impression. Alphabetically, the Inner has the advantage of the Middle, but if undue weight were given to this circumstance the Middle would be surpassed in precedence by Gray's Inn and Lincoln's Inn, and might be assigned an untrue inferiority.

The fact is that all the Inns of Court are of equal and incontestable rank.

For the inner life and domestic history of the Middle Temple it is sufficient to refer to Master Worsley's Book, (a) printed by the Society in 1896, edited by the present Editor.

The grant of James I. conveys the whole of the Temple without distinction of territory, though naming the Inner and Middle Temple, collectively to grantees named, among whom were the representatives of both Houses, placed according to their rank or standing in the profession, without regard to or mention of the seniority or precedence of either House.

The long bead-roll of distinguished men contained in the recent careful work of Mr. Hutchinson, the Librarian of the Middle Temple, (b) is to the Members of their old Inn ample evidence of the lofty position it has occupied for centuries in the minds of men, and of the estimation by public men of the honour of being enrolled among its Members.

ACCOUNTS OF EXPENDITURE OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE.

To throw light upon and supplement the translated Extracts above referred to, the Accounts of the Middle Temple have been searched by the Editor from 1637 to 1799-1800 for matters of interest, and the following extracts have been made from yearly Account Books from 1637 to 1800. The office of Treasurer is fully described in "Master Worsley's Book," previously referred to, (a) and always regarded as of great authority. "The Treasurer originally received all monies belonging to the Society and defrayed all charges accruing in his Treasurership which is now done by the Sub-Treasurer only" (p. 128).

"In the year 1524, Richard Lister, Esq., then the King's Solicitor-General, having been Treasurer two years, was desired to continue the Treasurership another year, which he agreed to and was accordingly re-chosen, but thinking the fatigue of receiving the money too great, desired that some person might be appointed ad coligend: et levand: debita, accordingly Mr. Whorwood was appointed thereto, which is the first appearance of a Sub-Treasurer" (p. 147). "From the example of Mr. Lister it is to be conceived the succeeding Treasurers had their several Under Treasurers, each Treasurer recommending his own, for though the twenty-six years' chasm in the Records of the House prevents the tracing the proceedings of the immediate successors of Mr. Lister, yet it appears when in the year 1551" (when the Records resume) "Mr. Mawdeley was chosen Treasurer, Mr. Mosely was at his instance appointed Under Treasurer." The post was frequently filled by Barristers, five of whom are mentioned, and one other a Member under the Bar.

On 10 Feb., 1624, in the Treasurership of Richard Hadsor, the following Order of Parliament was made (a) touching the monies and revenues of the House :—

“Forasmuch as the Under Treasurer has put in securities to answer the same, whereof bond is in his (i.e. the Treasurer’s) hands, his humble desire was to be eased of the charge or trouble of receiving any monies into his hands pertaining to the House. It is thereupon ordered that not only the present Treasurer but all succeeding Treasurers shall be eased of that charge or trouble, and shall not at any time hereafter receive into his or their hands any monies pertaining to the House, but that the Under Treasurer shall wholly receive and keep the same, and give account thereof from time to time in the said Master Treasurer’s name, as it shall, or shall be hereunto required by the Masters of the House.”

These Accounts were regularly audited.

No books of Account have been found before the date of 1637, from which time a series of parchment-covered Account Books begins, inscribed with the names of the Treasurer. The earlier ones only record the payments. In some of them after a while entries or memoranda of receipts occur for Admissions to the House, Rents, Lists of Servants by name, etc., at the beginning of each volume, but not in the body of it, or in the opposite page, or in regular order of date. As time went on, about the year 1711 a more regular system was adopted, and receipts and payments appear in the same volume, and are fitfully, and at last regularly, cast up and balanced. Among those books occur occasional duplicates, and a series of Receipt Books was added from 1720, that is, containing the actual signatures of the persons receiving payment, oftentimes bearing the revenue stamp for receipts.

(a) See Rules and Orders, 2nd edition, 1896, edited by C. H. Hopwood, “Motion of Master Treasurer.”

Many bundles of Bills and Vouchers, each inscribed with the name of the Treasurer of the year, are in existence.

Entries in the Records translated show that the Accounts of each Treasurership were annually audited by Members of the Bench appointed for the purpose.

The following Extracts have been made and selected to illustrate the history of the House, its Feasts, its Plays or Entertainments, the names of officers, items bearing on the events of the day, names of courts and buildings now extinct, the cost of building parts of the Middle Temple still existing, repairs of the Church, the choice of the organ, etc. They are perhaps disappointing on the whole, but some possess interest for the reader, and will be found noticed under the following principal heads:—

PLAYS.

These were frequent in the Hall on Feast days, such as Candlemas and All Saints' Days. The names are rarely given, but "The Countryman," and "The Clown" seem to have been popular and repeated. "Wit without Money" was one in Nov., 1660. Many others were recorded only as "A Plaie," or a Play. The receipts for the acting, by professionals or the King's servants, are signed Sir Wm. Davenant (once only), others by Francis Davenant and Alexander Davenant and others.

MUSIC IN THE HALL.

Some musicians received a regular salary. Others in greater number were occasionally employed, also Dancers. "Instructing the gentlemen" is another item.

BONFIRES.

These seem to have been a favourite amusement at the Great Gate, in Fleet Street, on such days as 5 Nov.,

the return of Charles I. from the North, the birth of his son the Duke of Gloucester, the return of Charles II., the coming of his Queen from Portugal, and other occasions of public rejoicing.

THE CHURCH.

Large expenditure is recorded from time to time on the fabric, whitewashing the interior, carving of pulpit, etc.

Clergy reading prayers at the Church in the week, Curates, Lecturers, or Readers as at present we understand the office, Masters of the Temple are mentioned by name. Litigation with Dr. Micklethwaite, one of the Masters, before the King and Privy Council.

THE ORGAN.

Payments for this, of the Society's moiety to Bernard Smith, and the early and continued preference of his instrument (the organ) by the Middle Temple, is attested by the items recorded ending in the appeals to the Lord Keeper and Lord Chancellor Jefferies.

THE HALL.

Repairs to, from time to time ; flooring in 1730.
Making and supply of new tables, etc.

Making and carving the doors to Screen.

BUILDINGS.

Allusion to these, top of Middle Temple Lane three separate erections, among others Luther's Buildings, still standing. To others by various names of courts now no longer known.

In the Accounts appear the building of Garden Court, New Court, Essex Court, etc., the erection of Dials on buildings; the construction of the Fountain and Gardens, the Temple Bridge, etc.

“COMMONS.”

The number of Members attending Commons is set forth in the Books.

PARLIAMENT SUPPERS.

These begin modestly, but increase. The viands are sometimes described.

INCOME AND PROPERTY OF DOMUS.

Sometimes borrowing was necessary.

The gradual increase in the revenue of the House is shown by many investments and the purchase of Chambers and Plate.

EXPOSED CHILDREN.

Children “dropt,” as the phrase is, or deserted infants left to the mercies of the Bench, so numerous as to become for many years a great cost to the House for maintenance, burial, apprenticing, etc.

It appears that very many of them had the name of “Temple” assigned to them. The Middle Temple seems to have been constituted a crèche for the reception of infants from heartless parents relying, and not in vain, on the benevolence of the Bench.

FIRES.

These are frequently noticed, especially the Great Fire of London, and many others occurring in the Temples or adjoining courts and buildings.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Accounts are largely made up of items unfitted for selection ; e.g. wages of servants, payments for Ale and Beer, Wines, long bills of small items but large totals, of Bricklayers, Painters, Glaziers, Smiths, Masons, Carpenters, Joiners, Plumbers, Paviours, Plasterers, Scavengers, Pewterers, for Plates, Glasses, Saucers, Knives, Spoons, Candles, "Lanthornes," Linen, Napkins, Upholstery, Ironmongery, Buckets, Washing, Coals, etc., Commons (food supplied), Parliamentary Suppers, Collections for the Calves-Head Roll (a provision for the servants). Other Rolls (collections) for special purposes, disbursements to the Clerk of the Church, keeping the Clock, etc. etc.

The Accounts of the Middle Temple, first contained in parchment-covered books, commence with those of Treasurer Richard Lane, 1637-8. They have been searched down to the Treasurership of Arthur Piggott, A.D. 1798-9. Prior to these methodical entries, there are many statements in the Records showing that the Accounts of each Treasurer were regularly audited by Masters of the Bench to whom that duty was assigned. It is believed that the audit was conducted somewhat loosely, judged by modern accuracy, by the production of vouchers for payments, and notes of receipt of amounts by the Treasurer, jotted down as they occurred in the Book of Orders for the time being, that is, in the Records which are now abstracted, translated, and printed for the first time. On the motion of Master Worsley, who appears to have been a most active and governing spirit among the Benchers, and whose book (a) is most interesting, it was ordered, 29 Jan., 1730, that no Treasurer receive any public money of this Society, but that all such money shall be paid to the Under Treasurer only.

(a) Published in 1896 by the present Editor. See supra, p. xvii.

No notice was taken or knowledge shown then of a prior Order passed in 1625, "That not only the present Treasurer, but all succeeding Treasurers shall be eased of that charge, viz. receiving any monies pertaining to the House, but that the Under Treasurer shall wholly receive the same and give account in the said Master Treasurer's name." The Under Treasurer seems to have always, or from an early time, given security for the duties of his office. He was often appointed from among the Members of the House.

The Account Books are representative solely of payments made, though there are at the beginning of many of them notes of Receipts or lists of Fines paid to the Under Treasurer until 1719-20, when a more regular set of "Accompt" Books, called Day Books, begin in the Treasurership of William Ettrick and of the Sub-Treasurer John Malet. These contain both Receipts and Payments. Besides, there were kept what are styled Receipt Books, containing the accounts paid, and the items signed and receipted (often stamped) by those to whom the accounts were due. Among these will be found the signatures of Bishop Sherlock, Sir Christopher Wren, and others.

APPENDIX.

Besides the above, there has been gathered in an Appendix some interesting matter from the Public Records of cases heard and determined by the Privy Council in the autocratic and apparently universal assumed jurisdiction of that important body, resting on the prerogative of the monarch.

FROM THE MINUTES OF PARLIAMENT.

NOTE.—Remarks interpolated in the Text and the Notes at foot have been supplied by the Editor.

FROM BOOK A 1 (1501–1524).

As before mentioned, the first Book of the Records (Book A) begins in the 16th year of Henry VII. 1501 and continues through the intervening years to the 16th of Henry VIII. 1524. The first entry runs thus when translated from the Latin of the original:—

“John Brooke (a) was elected Treasurer of the Middle Temple and took upon him that office. And afterwards, on the Quinzaine of St. Michael the Archangel then next, William Bollynges (b) the last Treasurer delivered to him the same John the Book of the Constitution of the same place with the Rolls,” showing that there were antecedent records, of which unfortunately no vestige is to be found.

The next entry is in the 17th of Henry VII. of a Parliament “on the Day of Commemoration,” whatever that may mean, too well understood then to be further particularized, for the celebration of the Feast then about to be held. Probably it was All Saints’ Day, sometimes so referred to. After enumerating several appointments of officers of the Feast there follows “Item for divers expenses incurred at the arrival of Lady Katharine de Espanea at Westminster to have a place to see ‘le justis’ (c)

(a) Probably of the family of Sir Richard Brooke, Serjeant and Reader 1510, and possibly of Sir Robert Brooke (d. 1558), author of the famous “Abridgment.” See Notable Middle Templars, p. 31.

(b) Or Bolling, Knight, third Baron of the Exchequer, 1501.

(c) The tournament to celebrate the marriage of Prince Arthur.

it was resolved that a subsidy be collected from all, to wit each member 12d."

Parliament, 29 Jan., 1501-2. Mompesson was admitted a member.

At a Parliament, 6 July in the same year, John Brooke was re-elected Treasurer.

It appears by entries of this date that members of the House were appointed Marshals and Butlers and Constables of the Tower (a) of the Feasts at Christmas, etc. If they refused they were submitted to fines of 40 or 20 shillings, or were excused for illness.

Master Elyot (b) was chosen Reader because he had been chosen Serjeant-at-Law.

Various Members were assigned to chambers, with other members (named).

One Marke was dismissed the Society and pardoned arrears for a fine of 13s. 4d. "as poverty," etc.

Parliament, 3 July, 1503. John Brooke reappointed Treasurer.

Parliament, 2 Nov., 1504. Masters of the Revels appointed.

Parliament, 9 Nov., 1504. Serjeants' Feast.

"And then it was given to be understood by the Society that Palmys junior was to be Serjeant by virtue of a warrant of our Lord the King to the Bishop of London, then Keeper of the Great Seal (c), and officers for the Feast chosen, 'Surveyors, Sewers, Conveyers and Controllers,' and 20 marks were granted among the Serjeants, 'as was customary,' etc."

The Feast was held at Lambeth, 13 Nov., in the Inn (d) of the Archbishop of Canterbury. (e)

"Before the said Feast, namely, on Friday at the third hour after noon, there assembled in the Hall round 'le cubbord' (a) all the members in town, as well those who were in Commons, as others who were not held to be in Commons by reason of their wives being in town, or by reason of special pardon by fine. And then four of those 'Aunciens' were sent to the Chambers of the Serjeants to bring them up to 'le Cuppeborde,' where Westby, Second Baron of the Exchequer, and Bollyng, Third Baron, (b) stood with Master Empson. (c) Also many of the Seniors and all the members were present. And the said Westby, giving to those who were elected to be Serjeants praise for their good behaviour and good conduct, which were the cause of their election, desired them to have the Society in their favour, etc., with other discourse fitting for the subject.

"And then the Treasurer delivered to them 20 marks in gold and silver enclosed in a new glove, on receiving which they thanked the Society not only for the money but for other benefits, as learning in law, and binding them to study by the good rules ordained by the Society, which restrained them in youth from their dislike to study, etc. And then they drank all together and went with those conveying them by 'la barge' as far as the Inn at Lambeth. And there they left them, etc.

"And also on the morrow, viz. Saturday, divers, that is, almost all the members of the four Inns, at the desire of the said Serjeants, viz. each one desired those of his own Society to dine with him,—and they did so, etc.

"Also on Sunday all the Justices were before 10 o'clock in the Chapel of the Inn at Lambeth aforesaid, and the new Serjeants kneeling before them made declaration on the writs first delivered to them. These narrations being finished, the Chief Justice (d) of the King's Bench praised them for their declarations, and showed to them more good examples of their predecessors, and then placed 'lez Coyfes' (the Coifs) on their heads and tied them under their chins, and clothed them one by one with hoods of scarlet (provided by the same Serjeants

(a) The Cuppebord or Cupboard appears to have been an erection in a prominent part of the Hall, frequently mentioned in the Records, where members formally appointed were requested to stand, and where important matters were promulgated.

at their own costs), placing the same hoods on their shoulders like doctors, and so they were created Serjeants-at-Law in the presence of the public, before the whole Inn, the folk standing around.

"And then all the Justices entered the Hall with the Serjeants following, and the Justices sat in the Hall at the High Table, and other great folk with them, and the Serjeants sat in the lower part of the Hall, in the South End of the said Hall.

"Also on Monday the said Serjeants came to Westminster Hall and before them all men of their livery and well ranked. However, next before them a Serjeant-at-Arms with a great 'Mase' (Mace) and the Warden of the Flete (Prison) with his Staff.

"And all the new Serjeants stood in the South part of the Hall opposite the Court of Common Bench, and always the oldest of them by his admission, from which he was chosen Serjeant, on the higher side. And then two of the old Serjeants went from the bar of the Court up to the new Serjeants, and took the Senior between them and led him to the bar before the Chancellor of England, the Treasurer of England with all the other Justices then present there. And he made his declaration, and one of the old Serjeants made a defence, and the Prothonotary read the writ.

"And so they did with each, etc.

"And afterwards they went to their Inn, and on the same day the King with his whole household breakfasted with them."

"Memorandum, that for those three days no Order was made for Commons (a) in the four Inns of Court, nor in the Inns of Chancery, because all (i.e. the Members of the Inn) breakfasted with the foresaid Serjeants, and very many others to the number of a thousand!"

"No Reader during his Reading shall admit any, but for the usual fine, viz. five marks for a general admission, and £5 for a special, except noblemen, knights, and gentlemen of account who desire to be admitted, but shall not mind to continue here in Commons. Readers may admit these, taking such fines as he (sic) thinks fit."

Parliament, April, 1605. Wages of Johan Tolle the Laundress raised 32s. a year, "wood and coals being dearer, and cloths, towels, and napkins oftener washed."

Parliament, 9 May, 1606. Henry Haule, Esq., elected Treasurer.

Parliament, 27 June, 1606. "On Sunday at Serjeants' Inn, the Treasurer, two Ancients, more of the Bench, and a like number of other Houses of Court, being called before Sir John Popham, Lord Chief Justice, Sir Thos. Fleming, Lord Chief Baron, and all the Judges of the three Courts, Mr. Vaux's (c) call to the Bar was misliked, and four Benchers declared it void."

Parliament, 30 Jan., 1606. "Mr. Lawley, Principal of New Inn, shall bring to the Masters his account of all he ought to account for during the time he has been Principal. He shall set down such fees, etc., belonging to the House, and what to the Principal, and shall show the order of Chancery by which the rent of New Inn is stayed."

Parliament, 6 Feb., 1606-7. A long list of chambers, "which shall always remain Benchers' Chambers, set out and described by the names of the occupiers."

(a) Attorney of Wards and Liveries.

(b) In 1569.

(c) Infra, 3 June, 1609, p. 34.

"The gift and bestowing of offices, the placing and displacing of officers, belongs to the Bench, and not to the Treasurer."

"No gentleman of the House, serving-men, or others shall be let in at the Temple Gate after 11 P.M."

Parliament, 24 April, 1607. Richard Swayne, Esq., elected Treasurer.

Directions for the ordering of New Inn.

Parliament, 15 May, 1607. "Henceforth Christmas shall be no Vacation, (a) and every gentleman be in or out Commons as he pleases."

Parliament, 12 June, 1607. Further orders as to New Inn accounts.

Parliament, 16 Oct., 1607. Due to the Steward £320. 10s. 6d., most of it since last Term.

Parliament, 15 April, 1608. "The Under Officers shall aid the Porter in keeping out rogues and beggars, viz. the Panier Man, the Gardener, the Turnebroch, and the Stacioner in the Lane, and William, late Carter's man, and their successors."

Richard Daston, Esq., elected Treasurer.

Parliament, 6 May, 1608. Mr. John Williams, "an ancient Utter Barrister," suspended to end of next Term "for not having received the Holy Communion for many years. If he do not receive it in the Temple Church before that, he shall be expelled."

New Inn accounts received, examined, and adopted. "To remain with Treasurer. Principal to have copy. Orders made to be observed in New Inn."

Parliament, 10 June, 1608. "Messrs. Stone, Beek, C. Pigott, Ryvers, Edward Smith, and Kyngswell have undertaken to build a new range of new chambers from Inner Temple Lane into the Churchyard." (b)

(a) Vacations did not signify holidays. They were periods, probably when the Courts were not sitting. The Readings, Moots, etc., took place in them. They seem to have been the peculiar time for legal education.

(b) These were known afterwards as Churchyard Court. They were built against the church where the random stonework of the ancient church appears, and were pulled down when Goldsmith Building was erected.

Pensions much in arrear to be collected.

Wages of Johan Tolle, Laundress, increased from £11. 12s. 0d. to £13. 6s. 8d.

Parliament, 10 Feb., 1608-9. Moots provided for.

Parliament, May 5, 1609. Mr. Wm. Doggett expelled 21 June, 30 Eliz., for not receiving Communion, to be restored, on his petition "that he has reformed himself, and frequented Churches and received Communion," receiving next Communion and paying all duties.

Parliament, 26 May, 1609. Expulsion of Edward James, Edward Machin, and Robert Freke, "charged to have killed a tame stag of the King's." "James is in the Marshalsey, and the others have absented themselves."

"As it appears by the Communion Book that Mr. Doggett has received, etc., he is restored, paying arrears, etc."

Parliament, 30 June, 1609. It appears by the Communion Book kept by the Master of the Temple that "only 120 gentlemen received, while 260 were then in Commons." Former Act, 18 June, 44 Eliz., to be enforced.

"The Master of the Temple possesses by the King's grant a pension of £37. 6s. 8d., which both Houses are to pay, and he is to be provided with a convenient lodging. The Masters of good-will tax the gentlemen with 18d. each a year for him, and allow him the rent reserved upon certain lodging by the Church, lately purchased by the House, to which the Master pretends a title which the Masters mislike."

"After the decease or relinquishment of Mr. Thomas Master (Masters), now Master of the Temple, no further payment shall be made to his successors, but only £37. 6s. 8d., and the lodging."

Mr. Crasher (a) has allowed him £40 per annum for his lectures, with the same from the Inner Temple. "Every Benchers to be taxed 2s. a term; Utter Bar, 18d.; others, 12d."

Great trouble about unpaid Commons, £316. 7s. 10d. Orders thereon.

"George Vaux, declared (b) unworthy of call and disallowed, has since practised as Utter Barrister. Is now forbidden on fine."

(a) Or Crashaw. See next page.

(b) Supra, 27 June, 1606, p. 32.

Parliament, 24 Nov., 1609. No dice play allowed at Christmas time.

"Mr. Nightingale to confer with Inner Temple concerning the removal of the artificers within both Houses, and their shops." "£5 paid by Mr. Percyval for his misdemeanour to John Hopkins, one of the Butlers, shall remain absolutely forfeited in regard of his misdemeanour to Mr. Freston, now complained of; he is also put out of Commons."

"Mr. Edward James, expelled 26 May, 1609, for killing a tame stag, restored, the Prince's hand signifying his pleasure."

Petition to Parliament concerning Mr. Crashawe (a) "as the gentlemen thought the taxation burdensome, and he is benefited elsewhere."

Parliament, 26 Jan., 1609-10. "The Treasurer to communicate with Inner Temple that some like course be taken, so that the removing of him might be with as little disgrace to him as might be."

Masters of the Bench next Vacation to take Under Treasurer's accounts.

Parliament, 9 Feb., 1609-10. "A copy of the Act of Parliament that Associates of the Bench should give a cup of £10, to be shown to Sir Robert Napper (b), an Associate, and to demand the said cup."

Moots discussed, and Orders made thereon.

"Gyles Garton, a gentleman of the Society, used ill words to Thomas White, another gentleman in the Hall, at supper time, and struck him over the face with his knife. He was called before the Masters, and by them thought fit to be censured, and by Mr. Recorder to be committed. He rescued himself at the screen from the Butler, who had him in charge by the Recorder's warrant. He was commanded to attend the Masters at the table on Wednesday next at dinner, otherwise ipso facto to be expelled." He did not do so. Entered in Parliament Book "for further order."

Parliament, 27 April, 1610. Nicolas Overbury, Esq., elected Treasurer.

(a) William Crashaw, Preacher.

(b) Or Napier. See Notable Middle Templars, p. 171.

Mention of the "Temple Gate," or "Tower and chambers therein," the "Temple Lane leading from the said Tower to the bridge." "A piece of common ground lying next to the Brick Wall in the Lane on the East parte."

Some chambers in the Inner Temple Lane mentioned. Chambers "next adjoyning the Church, also the Churchyarde," several chambers.

Next follows an Index to this volume, and then an entry—

"XI. die Marci, anno regni reginæ Mariæ primo (11 March, 1 Mary). Implements in the kechyn (kitchen) in the charge and custody of Jo . . . ce Chief Coke in the House, platters, dyshes, sawsers, brasse pannes," etc. etc., being set out.

FROM BOOK C 3 (1610-1626).

Parliament, 27 April, 1610. Nicolas Overbury, Esq., elected Treasurer. (a)

Petition of Anthony Parman, Goldsmith, concerning his claim to a lease of parcel of New Inn, referred to Treasurer.

Edward James, expelled 26 May, 1609, for killing a stag of the King, is restored to fellowship and his standing, on report by Mr. Stephens that "he has obtained the Prince's favour to pardon his offence." Machin, expelled for same cause, restored.

Parliament, 15 June, 1610. Conferences with Inner Temple concerning Crashaw's petition. "They cannot increase his pension to make it fit for a man of his degree, he being a B.D., and cannot make its continuance certain, as it can only be raised by imposition upon the gentlemen of both Societies. They consider it unjust to draw him from a pastoral charge to his loss and cause him to be a stipendiary or pensioner, and non-resident. It is therefore determined that his pension shall be paid only until the end of this Term, and then he shall depart to his benefice with the Society's goodwill."

The taxation made, 3 Nov., 7 Jac. I., (b) is to be published and continued.

(a) Entry repeated, see supra, p. 35.

(b) For the purpose of payment to the Preacher.

Parliament, 22 June, 1610. "The Masters have granted five marks to Michael Godwin, Fellow of New Inn, on his petition that the £10 granted to him for his pains concerning the purchase of New Inn and his expense in bringing up his wife to London have not defrayed his charges."

"The Principal of New Inn to be spoken to to admit his son to the next void convenient chamber in New Inn. Thomas Stanley not to forfeit his chamber, not being in Commons while attending Sir Thomas Edmondes, Ambassador leidger (a) in France."

"New brick building in Middle Temple Lane" mentioned.

Parliament, 12 Oct., 1610. Fellows of the Society (named) not taking oath of allegiance to be expelled.

The admittance of Sir George Carew, late Ambassador leidger in France, to the old Parliament Chamber, dated 18 April, 1605, confirmed at the request of Henry, (b) Earl of Northampton, by letter.

Parliament, 26 Oct., 1610. "No Reader shall call any student to the Utter Bar, unless he has performed exercises, and is of seven years' continuance in the House."

Utter Barristers (named) fined. Inner Barristers also fined, being "out of Commons and absent from Reading."

Parliament, 25 Jan., 1610-11. Inner Temple Gate to be stopped on petition of William Blake, citizen and vintner, who "desires to rebuild the said gate, and his house, called 'The Princes Armes,' adjoining to and over the gate." [Petition describes building.] (c)

New Inn. "Anthony Parman to have all arrears of rents in New Inn due to him from occupiers (named) until and for this Term." Conference of Principal with the Treasurer; "fit recompense to be made to Parman for his interest in said chambers."

Parliament, 8 Feb., 1610-11. Ancient rules, under which "Readings began first Monday in Lent and the first Monday in August," altered to suit a special occasion.

(a) That is, "resident." Stanley was sent ambassador to France to report on the assassination of Henry IV. See Notable Middle Templars, p. 233.

(b) Henry Howard. See Notable Middle Templars, p. 128.

Parliament, 26 June, 1612. "Any gentleman having a chamber who suffers a stranger to lodge in his chamber" to incur a fine of £5," etc.

Parliament, 30 Oct., 1612. Thomas Stephens, Esq., elected Treasurer. "To act after the last Parliament of this Term."

Parliament, 16 Nov., 1612. "On Thursday night Mr. Sowden and others met in Mr. Rochester's chamber to pass the time in friendly manner, when unseemly words were delivered by Rochester to Sowden, who returned the like, and struck Rochester. Next day Rochester sent a challenge, which was accepted, and a time and place appointed for meeting. On this coming to him he (Sowden?) acquainted the Bench therewith, who called them before them. By their confessions it appeared that Sowden having drawn a rapier of Rochester's in his chamber the latter said, 'What a foole am I to deliver my rapier into the handes of a foole,' which Mr. Sowden taking offensively, he called Rochester an ass, and struck him. Rochester then challenged him without making the Masters of the Bench acquainted, which they conceive contrary to the peaceable government of the House." Ordered "Sowden to acknowledge his fault in striking," etc. Fine, 40s. "Rochester to acknowledge he has offended the whole Fellowship in sending challenge." Fine, 20s. The two gentlemen made these acknowledgments, and reconciled themselves by giving each other their hands.

Parliament, 27 Nov., 1612. The Treasurer with others "to confer with Inner Temple concerning inconveniences committed Parliament, 7 Feb., 1616-17. Mr. Richard Carrick is expelled. Mr. Benjamin Peere is expelled for "having struck Mr. Gervys Smith last Christmas in the Hall on the head with his rapier, drawing blood," and also for "having come in late at night very much overgone in drink and disquieted many."

Parliament, 9 May, 1617. Friday, 23 May, 1617, Messrs. John Dowle and others appeared to answer sundry contempt. "They (had) exhibited a petition to tolerate wearing hats in the Hall, and after it was denied (prohibited), and published at the Cupboard, they did so. Dowle with others charged with keeping a catalogue of those who had resolved to continue wearing hats, etc., in the Church and Hall, and now come in a hat contrary to orders. The which nevertheless Mr. Dowle denied, but behaved so insolently, and confessed so much, that the Bench saw good cause to suspect him for a chief-stirrer of mutiny, and held him worthy of expulsion. The others (named) come in hats, boots and spurs, and did not deny they wore them in Church or Hall after being forbidden. Fined penalties, they refused, were put out of Commons, but afterwards came into the Hall to take Commons in their hats. They confessed they had agreed, etc., and refused to submit unless the others in this confederacy would do likewise. Unless they submit before Tuesday, and come in their caps, they shall be expelled." Signed by Benchers present.

(b) Sham tournaments

Parliament, 30 May, 1617. "As there is a great conspiracy among the gentlemen of the Fellowship to break up the ancient order of wearing caps in the Hall at dinners, suppers, breakfasts, and in the Church in prayer and sermon time, and a great multitude have put themselves out of Commons, and diet themselves in their chambers, or at victualling houses, ordered those whose names follow shall not be admitted until they have submitted." "If any Utter Barrister presumes to Church or Hall, in Term time, or at Reading, etc., times, fine 3s. 4d."

Parliament, 27 June, 1617. Mr. Gibson, (a) Lecturer of the Temples, is presented with a benevolence of £6. 13s. 4d. towards his expenses at Cambridge taking his degree of B.D.

"The King by letters, dated 10 March, 1617, to Sir Francis Bacon, Lord Keeper, has signified his pleasure that 600 of the Inns of Court, etc., who will voluntarily offer themselves shall be tolerated, and allowed to practise in martial discipline. As this concerns all the Inns, etc., and as it appears by debates among the Readers and conference with gentlemen under the Bar, that there is no willingness nor ability to perform the contents of the letter, Mr. Treasurer shall confer with the other Treasurers concerning an answer."

"The Lords, etc., of the Privy Council, by letters 28 May last to the Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench and to the Benchers, signified the King's pleasure touching a petition to him for converting Lincoln's Inn Fields into convenient walks, like Moore Fields, and wished the Benchers to contribute; but, though desirous of satisfying the King's pleasure, they have no use for the walks, and no money in their treasury, but are in debt. They pray to be excused, etc."

"Symon Wadlow, Vintner at the Temple Gate, shall pay 20s. yearly rent for divers new lights which he has built upon the Temple Wall without leave."

Parliament, 21 Nov., 1617. William Swanton, Esq., elected Treasurer.

Parliament, 19 June, 1618. According to the direction of the Judges assembled on 25 June, admonition was given to the gentlemen of the Society at the Cupboard by the Recorder concerning rescues and disorders against arrests made by officers and Serjeants in the open streets, the persons arrested flying into this House and the Inner Temple for refuge. The Judges particularly mentioned Mr. Rafe Hastings, upon the petition of one Hoden, a Serjeant of London, and the Sheriff's letters to them. Hoden brought a prisoner to Mr. Justice Warberton's chamber by a writ of Habeas Corpus, and the prisoner escaping into the Inner Temple, was there rescussed, and (Hoden) being brought down in a tumult to the Temple Stairs, was chased into the Thames and followed by Mr. Rafe Hastings, and ducked into the water, and forced to leave his hold from the boat, in which he hanged, which appearing to us, in part, by the confession of Mr. Hastings himself, and upon the examination of the said Hoden, it could not appear that either Mr. Hastings or any other of the gentlemen of the Middle Temple were guilty of the said rescue, it is ordered "that Hastings for his disorder shall be put out of Commons and pay 20s. before All Saints' Day, or his chamber be seised. He shall also pay five marks to Hoden, who shall release the trespass. If Hoden refuses he (Hoden) shall take such course in law as he shall think fit."

Parliament, 13 Aug., 1618. "Mr. Hastings has offered five marks to Robert Hoden, who has refused it. He has been out of Commons now six weeks, and it is now ordered by Mr. Forde, Reader, and other Masters, at the special instance of the Earl of Worcester, Lord Privy Seal, etc., that he be remitted into Commons till further consideration next Term."

Parliament, 9 Oct., 1618. "Mr. Richard Martin, (b) Recorder of London, shall have a place among the Masters of the Bench, as his predecessors when Masters of the Bench have had." Admitted to the chambers of Sir Antony Benn, late Recorder, deceased.

(a) Swanton having died during his Treasurership.

(b) See Notable Middle Templars, p. 158.

Parliament, 27 Nov., 1618. "The Master Cook shall be allowed towards his losses in 'Smoother Vessell' and 'Ruff Pewter Vessell' on the Feasts of the Purification and All Saints, £5 a year."

"The Pannier Man shall be allowed every year nine dozen saucers, viz. two dozen in Hilary, Easter, and Trinity, and three dozen in Michaelmas."

Parliament, 7 May, 1619. New Inn. The suit of Sir Thomas Elliott to the Masters about the brick buildings in New Inn referred to a Committee.

Parliament, 4 June, 1619. New Inn. The complaint of Mr. Deuxwell, Treasurer of New Inn, that "divers gentlemen are behind with their duties, and taxations towards repairs and for the garden and the brick wall," referred to Committee.

The Masters of the Bench, being in Commons in the Parliament Chambers, sent John Leigh, the second Butler, to the Masters of the Bar on Tuesday, 28 May, requiring them to "warn gentlemen in Commons to forbear wearing their hats in Hall, because the Master of the Bench would come into Commons in the Hall at dinner on Wednesday. The Masters of the Bar refused, and desired the Masters to send the Butler to do it, and being asked again, refused in contempt of the government of the Society." Fine of 40s. on every Barrister there.

Parliament, 11 June, 1619. John Strode, Esq., elected Treasurer.

Parliament, 15 Oct., 1619. "Messrs. Robert Ashley (a) and seven others, Masters of the Bar, commanded flesh to be dressed, and served on St. Matthew's Eve, Monday, 20 Sep., being a fasting day, and served through the Hall at dinner and supper, contrary to the law." Some fined five marks, some put out of Commons. Verney, who resisted, (b) "is freed."

Parliament, 29 Oct., 1619. Mr. John Dowle's chamber in the Bricke Court, "which has fallen to the House by his expulsion for great enormities and contempts, to be granted to some other."

(a) Afterwards the donor of the Library. See Notable Middle Templars, p. 7.

(b) That is, opposed the proceeding.

Mr. Richard Baldwin, Under Treasurer, "to make perfect his long delayed account before Saturday, 20 Nov., and then he shall, of his own offer, resign his office."

Parliament, 19 Nov., 1619. Baldwin removed. Mr. John Bayliffe, a Master of the Utter Bar, elected Under Treasurer, with exemption from duties of Utter Barrister.

Parliament, 26 Nov., 1619. New Inn. Petition of Sir T. Elliott to be relieved of his supposed great loss by the erecting of new lodgings at New Inn referred.

John Dowle, expelled, is restored.

Parliament, 28 Jan., 1619-20. John Leigh, Butler, for "beating and boxing another Butler in the entry below the Screen, in the Hall after supper," put out of the House.

Complaint by Mr. Thos. Farewell, an Utter Barrister, against Mr. Horton, Utter Barrister, of "opprobrious words and reproachful names," etc. Horton expelled.

Parliament, 5 May, 1620. John Leigh, Butler, restored.

Mr. Masters, Master of the Temple. "The allowance of 18d. yearly paid by every gentleman, which for a little time upon some just occasion was withdrawn, and not paid to him, shall again be paid during pleasure of the Bench. Steward to collect."

18 May, 1620. It is stated the cause of the withdrawal was that Mr. Masters has of late given some sort of precedence to the Inner Temple in ministering the Communion by beginning to minister first to the Inner Temple, "whereas it hath been always administered alternis vicibus, there being no precedence." Mr. Masters exhibited a petition to Sir Henry Mountague, Lord Chief Justice, who called before him the Lord Chief Baron and Mr. Baron Bromley, who have been of the Inner Temple, and Mr. Justice Doddridge, who has been of this House, with sundry Benchers of both Temples. "His Lordship and Mr. Justice Doddridge remembered that the Master of the Temple did, as usually, begin to minister at the Middle Temple as at the Inner Temple in the times of Mr. Alvey, Mr. Hooker, and Doctor Balgay, and that for some time Mr. Masters did the same, which all the Benchers present remembered. Also his Lordship and the Judges held it not fit to allow any Inn of Court precedence over another, all the Inns of Court being in all points equal, which the Inner Temple acknowledges, saying they claimed no precedence, only they pretended to have the Dean's side of the Church. . . . The Judges thought meet to settle some present course for the prevention of any unkindness, but without prejudice to the rights of either side, 'That the Master and his Curate, or the Preacher, at the celebration, should take bread together, and the Master to give the bread to the Inner Temple, and the Curate or Preacher, at the same instant, to give the bread to the Middle Temple. That done, the Master to give the wine to the Middle Temple and the Curate at the same instant to the Inner, and this course to hold alternis vicibus between the House till other course be taken.'"

Parliament, 26 May, 1620. Cupboard Men appointed to stand at the Cupboard. Fine raised from 40s. to £3. 6s. 8d. for absence.

Stewards of Readers' Feasts to pay £10 a piece and no more.

Parliament, 23 June, 1620. Mr. Wm. Fovell to be restored on terms. For his offences, "somewhat transcendent," fined £10.

Mr. John Lowe elected Treasurer.

Parliament, 27 Oct., 1620. "Luther's Buildings," Middle Temple Lane, mentioned. "John Baylife, Under Treasurer, has amended the dark and noisome ways, etc., from Elme Court, Pump Court, and Gallery towards the Church, and has new built two new single chambers, one between Pump Court and Vine Court, and two shops in the new entry at foot of steps leading to Pump Court." Spent £160. "To have assignments of the chambers, and lease of the shops."

Nuisances, throwing from windows liquid repressed. "Le Darke Gallerie" in the entry near "le Elme Court" mentioned.

Parliament, 11 May, 1621. New Inn. Committee to send for the Principal, etc., to treat with them of the claim of Sir Thos. Elliott to the new building there. "If they cannot compound it, to deliver to Elliott the release which he made of the same to this House."

Parliament, 15 June, 1621. Period of Election of Treasurer. "The Treasurer shall be nominated in the last Parliament of Trinity Term every year, but shall not act till Michaelmas following. His account to be rendered the first Friday in Michaelmas Term. Mr. Wotton is now nominated Treasurer, Mr. Lowe to continue till Michaelmas."

Parliament, 12 Oct., 1621. Account of John Lowe, Treasurer, from 30 June, 1620, to 29 Sep., 1621, read, proved, and allowed. It was ordered to be entered in the Book provided for such accounts. Future accounts to be similarly entered and kept.<sup>(a)</sup>

Mr. Wotton confirmed in his office of Treasurer.

Parliament, 26 Oct., 1621. "As by long-continued usage every gentleman of the Society, except Masters of the Bench, have repaired their chambers and the stairs leading thereto, and many chambers and stairs are now in great decay, the Treasurer to view them and order repairs by fixed day on pain of seizure."

Parliament, 23 Nov., 1621. "Many having lately withdrawn from Commons to escape the charge of the entertainment of Judges, Serjeants, etc., at the Feasts of Purification and of All Saints, every Fellow having a chamber, or part, and not being in Commons, to be cast into half Commons. Nevertheless the former Order for 'Visi in villa' <sup>(b)</sup> to be observed."

Henry Arnold expelled by Grene, Summer Reader, and Masters, "restored on humble submission."

Parliament, 10 May, 1622. "The neglect of the ancient order that every gentleman lying in his chamber should be in Commons, has been chief cause of the rising of Commons beyond the accustomed rate, and tending to the dissolution of the Society." Order of House confirmed. Custom of gentlemen having Commons carried to their private chamber, instead of in Hall, in messes, considered great cause of rising of Commons. Order to restrain and prohibit it.

Parliament, 5 July, 1622. Thomas and Philip Llanden (brothers), in consequence of a quarrel of the latter with John

Puleston (a) of the Utter Bar, they laid in wait for him in a chamber used by their brother Benedict Llanden, an Utter Barrister, by which Puleston passed on his way to Westminster Hall. "Philip assaulted him with a 'bastinado' and, whilst Puleston was struggling with him, Thomas coming behind struck him with his fist, and taking him about the neck, treading on his gown, threw him down. While Thomas was lying on him Philip drew his brother's sword and struck at Puleston's head, but Puleston having got hold of the bastinado, warded off some blows, and Philip, fearing to hurt his brother, struck Puleston in the face with the hilt, while Thomas lying on him kept him down. Philip's servant stood by with his sword drawn to keep off company, which otherwise would have parted them." Philip and Thomas are expelled. And "as Benedict acquainted Philip with some unkind words which long since passed between himself and Puleston, and with other sayings of Puleston, supposed to be to the disgrace of Philip, he is condemned to stand out of Commons for six months, and fined £20."

Parliament, 11 Oct., 1622. Accounts of Wm. Wotton, Treasurer, read, allowed, and ordered to be entered in the Book. James Welsh, Esq., chosen Treasurer.

Parliament, 25 Oct., 1622. Names of gentlemen in debt for Commons to be Screened. Their chambers to be seized. Bonds to be put in suit.

Parliament, 24 Jan., 1622-3. Orders made against those in debt for Commons.

Parliament, 23 May, 1623. The lately introduced custom of banquet by gentlemen called, prohibited under fine of £5.

Parliament, 27 June, 1623. Ancient custom of forming Pleadings to the Case described and enforced by fine.

Thomas Barker nominated Treasurer.

Parliament, 18 Oct. Welsh's accounts read and allowed. To be entered in the Book.

Barker assumed his office.

"Mr. Francis Barker, late Chief Butler, for his good and faithful service, admitted specially, gratis, and without any payment of pensions, etc., to have his chamber, etc., shall not be put in Commons except at his own pleasure."

Parliament, 6 Feb., 1623-4. Payment of Commons enforced.

John Barker, Second Butler, succeeded his father as Chief Butler.

Parliament, 11 June, 1624. Richard Hadsor nominated Treasurer. (a)

Parliament, 29 Oct., 1624. Anthony Gearing, an Utter Barrister, "being of lewd and evil life, and having been at several times indited of felony," degraded and expelled.

Parliament, 26 Nov., 1624. The diet out of the kitchen and rents allowed. Philip Walker, the Porter, stopped for his remissness, and "if he do not speedily amend, and reform the disorder of company, extraordinary standing at the screen at dinner and supper, and beggars in the lane, he shall be expelled."

Parliament, 1 July, 1625. No Summer Reading this year by reason of the great increase and danger of the sickness. Commons shall break up. All depart the House, only some to be appointed by Mr. Treasurer to keep the House "until such time as it shall please God to cease and abate the sickness."

Parliament holden at Redding, (b) 18 Nov., 1625. Mr. Hadsor, Treasurer, to give up accounts to the first Parliament in Hilary Term.

Parliament, 27 Jan., 1625-6. Accounts of Hadsor allowed, Nicholas Hyde (c) elected Treasurer.

Edward Ayleworth's gift, "Amonge all the persons and places where I have bin knowne and biloved, I may not forgett the place of my first education, to whom I accompte next under God my poore estate most bound unto. I doe now with my last breath give to the Benchers there nowe and to come, of that my nurseing Mother, one cup of guilt plate to the value of ten poundes, for a signe that once I lived amongst them, and loved them. About the brim of which I will have these words circumscribed, viz. Ultimum Vale Edwardi Ayleworth Antiquis suis Medii Templi amicis. With my armes faire graven on the outsyde thereof and over all the outsyde of the Cupp, I will have handes in hand graven, etc., in signe of a further farwell to my olde loving frendes. And when this cupp shall come to be delivered, which I would have to be by Mr. Barton presently after my death, (the last clause to be copied and put in the cup) and soe presented. And soe the Lord be with them."

Parliament, 10 Feb., 1625-6. On the Treasurer's motion "the Under Treasurer hereafter shall receive all money, and account therefore in the High Treasurer's name."

Parliament, 16 June, 1626. "As the Fellows of the House have much discontinued their wonted manner of living together, usually betaking themselves to lodgings in the town as foreigners, rather than as fellows associated together for cohabitation, to their own prejudice and danger . . . and the decay of learned exercises, and divers of the Bar as soon as they are called not having Chambers in the House, presently discontinue without performance of their exercises, or serving their vacations; in future no man shall be proposed to be called to the Bar who has not a Chamber in the House."

Parliament, 23 June, 1626. "New building adjoining the Hall" mentioned. "On account of the great cost lately bestowed on the Parliament Chamber, near adjoining the Hall, it shall be reserved for the Masters of the Bench. No Reader shall use it to breakfast, etc., but only (upon occasion) in the large room or chamber under the Hall," etc.

Gentlemen forbidden the use of chairs, cushions, plates, etc., provided for use of Bench.

Parliament, 13 Oct., 1626. Accounts of M. Dale, including expenses of the "new building near the Hall and in the Garden," allowed and ordered to be entered in the Book.

Sir Walter Pye, Attorney of the Court of Wards, (a) etc., elected Treasurer.

FROM BOOK B 2 (1626-1658).

Treasurership of Sir Walter Pye.

Parliament, 26 Jan., 1626-7. "No Serjeant-at-Law after taking his oath and being solemnly invested in his robes has any right to retain or dispose of his chamber, which then accrues to the House to be disposed of."

Parliament, 9 Feb., 1626-7. "Certain ruinous and decayed buildings on the north side of Pump Court." It is ordered that the petitioners shall bring into the Treasury £600 cost of rebuilding, "said buildings to be taken down and rebuilt by the undertakers. They to have chambers for life, and one assignment," etc.

Parliament, 4 May, 1627. "No Reader called by writ to be a Serjeant, except at a general call of Serjeants, shall be presented by the Treasurer with £10 in a purse, nor be permitted the use of a chamber after he has been solemnly invested, but must leave it to the House."

New Inn. Alteration in articles touching the misgovernment of the said House. "Principal and Ancients shall give their answer directly."

Parliament, 8 June, 1627. "Serjeants-at-Law shall have warning to depart before Hilary Terms."

New Inn. "Sir Thos. Eliot shall have a lease in writing from the Feoffes of New Inn," etc.

Parliament, 12 Oct., 1627. "The Clerks and Servants of the Masters of the Bench shall eat their Commons in the Buttery as heretofore. The Master of any of them shall account for his offences," etc.

Accounts of Sir Walter Pye approved. Mr. Thomas Ford, nominated 8 June, confirmed.

(a) Afterwards Welsh Judge. See Notable Middle Templars, p. 200.

Parliament, 25 Jan., 1627-8. "Mr. Pigott and Mr. White, who quarrelled in the Hall, so that a sword was drawn and a blow struck, standing at the fire, will be expelled unless they attend before next Parliament."

Parliament, 8 Feb., 1627-8. All Serjeants having chambers to remove before Feast of Annunciation.

Parliament, 27 June, 1628. Thomas Tryst, Esq., nominated Treasurer. The Steward's claim is allowed. "Wages 53s. 4d. a year, diet for himself and one man; poundage for money paid by him for bread and beer in the Buttery, for grocery, ware, and other things brought into the kitchen, and for coals, billets and faggots spent then, 3d. for a repast, and 1d. for every man in Commons, a whole Term for the Porter who brings all the meat to the House."

The Chief Butler's claim, "wages 53s. 4d. a year, 20s. from every gentleman at his first coming, diet for himself and one man, the waste drink, dropping of taps, and broken drink in the cellar (beside what the poor have)," is allowed, etc.

The four Puisne Butlers allowed 20s. a year, "their diet when they attend in Commons, their equal share of the Buttery book collected in Easter Term; to have each in his turn during the absence of the Chief Butler the same allowance as he has; Poundage for collecting the Pension rolls, Preacher's roll, and Serjeants' roll, 12d. to Puisne Butler for recording the first Moot of every gentleman who is called to the Bar." But the 10s. for "bringing in the cushions for the Bench table" is disallowed. Chief Washpots wages, etc.; two Under Washpots also. The Chief Cook's wages, 53s. 4d. a year, etc. etc.; the Under Cook, 40s., etc. etc.; the Turnspit, 26s. 8d., etc.; the Panier Man, 53s. 4d., etc. etc.; the Porter, £5. 10s., etc. etc.; the Gardener, £6. 13s. 4d., etc. etc.; the Laundress, £16.

"The Under Treasurer, Diet, Poundage, 2s. 6d. a day for overseeing workmen, and 6d. for drawing and entering admissions, 8d. for drawing and entering admittance to a chamber, 10s. of every gentleman called, 20s. for making up the High Treasurer's account." "Old cast table-cloths, and linen and all old materials past employ," allowed.

Parliament, 10 Oct., 1628. "Old building in Pump Court now rebuilt." (a)

(a) Probably north side. See supra, p. 55.

Mr. Ford's accounts allowed; Thomas Tryst, Esq., elected Treasurer.

Parliament, 24 Oct., 1628. The yearly allowance of 18d. a man to the Master of the Temple is continued to Dr. Mickelthwaite "in spite of the Act of Parliament, 30 June, 1609, that this allowance should cease."

"The new building in the garden," mentioned 10 Nov. At a meeting of the Masters, ordered, "that the Order touching the administration of the Communion between this House and the Inner Temple be shown to Dr. Mickelthwaite."

His demand of a hood, being part of his habit as a Doctor, denied. Surplice referred to Committee of both Houses. "The Master shall receive from the Treasury the rents of 'Kellaway's Buildings' (a) in the Churchyard (withdrawn from Mr. Masters) from Michaelmas during pleasure."

The Steward and Chief Cook fined £5 each for "failure in Commons in the Hall last All Hallows' Day."

Parliament, 21 Nov., 1628. Mr. Napper, senior, of Vine Court fined £5 for "allowing his father when in town and other strangers to lie in his chamber," and 40s. for the "disorders caused by them and throwing out of window not only water, but other filthiness."

At the request of the Archbishop of Canterbury, (b) Mr. Francis Barton called to the Utter Bar.

Walter Copley, upon request of the Lord Keeper, nominated Puisne Butler.

Dr. Mickelthwaite, a present to him of £20 "for a New Year's gift. He shall have the full rents in the Churchyard collected or not."

Quarrel between Oliver Ayshcombe and William Porter, chamber fellows. Ayshcombe fined £5 "for striking Mr. Porter with a staff."

Porter shall lose his chamber. Both out of Commons until restoration by Bench.

New building in Pump Court cost £750. [The allotment of chambers on the several floors is described.]

(a) Probably named from Robert Kellaway or Keilway, the Law Reporter, who had a dwelling in the Temple.

(b) William Laud.

Parliament, 24 April, 1629. Middle and Inner Temple. Conference touching partition to be made.

The Calves-head Feast usually held for relief of certain officers and servants abolished. "The Masters will find some other way of relief."

Pump Court, new building. "To the end that payment may be made to the poor workmen long kept without their money, almost to their utter undoings, the chambers of defaulters to be seized and sold."

Parliament, 12 June, 1629. Petition of William Davies, Clerk of the Church. "He shall have four groats yearly added to his allowance of four nobles for carrying about the little bell throughout the year, which formerly he only did in Term time. For his weekly bills of sickness, his ancient allowance of bread and beer out of the Buttery. His yearly wages of £4, and 4d. a year for every gentleman to be paid by the Steward."

Porter's allowance settled.

Parliament, 19 June, 1629. Report touching "pulling down and rebuilding certain rooms between Luther's Building and Middle Temple Gate erected by Sir Walter Cope and Sir Arthur Gorges."

Mr. Thomas Grene (a) nominated Treasurer.

Pump Court, "new building on the east side," and "new building on the west side," mentioned.

Parliament, 16 Oct., 1629. Dr. Micklethwaite's claim to place in the Hall, etc. Special and full note rejecting the claim. (b)

Parliament, 30 Oct., 1629. The accounts of Thomas Tryst allowed. Thos. Grene succeeding.

Temple Church seats. Old usage was to keep the Inner Aisle on the north side in Term time for Benchers, Ancients, and other Barristers, and the other Aisle on the same side for other gentlemen of this Society. The ancient course revived. "Seats on the right side of the door to the Inner Aisle for Masters, the three first seats on the left for Cupboard men and (a) "Grove" in Worsley's List.

(b) Micklethwaite's claim was also dealt with in the Inner Temple. See Inner Temple Records, ii. p. lxxxiii.

Ancients, and the rest for Utter Barristers. The seats in the Outer Aisle for other gentlemen of the Society, and that no stranger clerks or others be let in to disturb them."

Mr. Thynne expelled. "After having spoken at dinner disgraceful words of Mr. Browne he was civilly questioned by him about them in the Buttery, but so far from justifying them, struck him a dangerous blow in the eye. Some gentlemen parted them and were holding Mr. Browne, when Thynne struck him twice about the mouth and nose, blood followed in abundance. This appeared from confession of Thynne, and variance of his witnesses."

Parliament, 27 Nov., 1629. Mr. Napper's chamber in Vine Court seized, "warning having been given to his father, who lodged there, to reform the disorders."

Mr. Thynne is restored to his Fellowship, paying £10 at the instance of Mr. Browne, a Master of the Bench.

"The new building on the east side of Middle Temple Lane" mentioned. (a)

"During last Vacation time the Masters of the Bar fined George Oglander 10s. for taking away a buckler-piece from the Steward serving up to the Bar table, and he being convented before them, came to the upper end of the table, clapt his hat on his head, and used unbecoming speeches. They caused an order for the said 10s. to be entered in the Buttery Book, and when the Butler brought the book to be signed, he snatched the book and carried it to the Bar table in a tumultuous manner, accompanied by all the gentlemen under the Bar, then in Hall, and being supplied with pen and ink blotted out the order, telling the Masters (i.e. of the Bar) they had no power to fine him, and that 'they would be Benchers before their time.'" The Masters of the Bench consider his conduct worthy of expulsion, but in this Parliament he demeaned himself respectfully. "He must pay the fine of 10s. and be put out of Commons, etc."

"Chamber in the fourth storey in the new buildings in Middle Temple, near the Gate" (assigned).

Parliament, 7 May, 1630. "Apparels" (b) amounting to £19. 19s. 10d. dealt with.

(a) Probably that before referred to between Luther's Buildings and the Gate erected by Sir Walter Cope and Sir Arthur Gorges.

(b) See note, supra, p. 10 (a).

"The ruins of the old building, south side of Elme Court," to be taken down and rebuilt at the charge of the House.

Parliament, 11 June, 1630. Sickness. Ordered "no Summer Reading. None bound to attend."

"No breakfast to be hereafter provided on Sundays in Term time, it being an unnecessary charge to have breakfast so immediately before going to dinner."

"William Davies (a) has done ill office between the Houses and the Master of the Temple to set them in contention, and otherwise misconducted himself." "All wages, etc., to him to be withdrawn."

Mr. Thomas South nominated Treasurer.

Parliament, 5 Nov., 1630. Dr. Micklethwaite. "The Steward shall offer him £17 arrears of last year's collection upon the Parson's rolls as the goodwill and benevolence of this House to him."

"The Master, notwithstanding former forbearance for fear of infection may again preach on Sunday afternoon if he please." "No notice of this to him till Inner House be informed."

Grene's (Grove ?) (b) accounts allowed.

Parliament, 26 Nov., 1630. Great neglect of exercises in the Hall, and failure by Utter Barristers, in performing two assignments after their call. Orders thereon. Fine of five marks for disobedience.

No Commons at Christmas. "Danger of infection from the resort of all sorts of people to the House, in respect of play there, as lately it has been used contrary to the ancient custom."

Commons to break up on Saturday, 11 Dec.

Parliament, 28 Jan., 1630-1. "Divers young gentlemen opposed the order for breaking up Commons on pretence of their liberties (as they termed it) being infringed, whereas no liberty may exempt them at any time from being governed by the orders of the Bench." Three, Deyer, Lisle, and Oglander, the most forward, fined £5 each, etc. etc.

Committee appointed for rebuilding "south side of Elme Court."

(a) The Church Clerk.

(b) See note, supra, p. 58 (a).

Parliament, 11 Feb., 1630-1. Deyer, Lisle, (a) and Oglander fined £5 each for continuing Commons contrary to order, "to be out of Commons and yet pay Commons, and for assembling under the title of a Parliament, and entering an order to that effect in a book called their Parliament Book, and the Keeper thereof their Clerk of Parliament, and for fining the Steward 40s., to be cast into Commons, awarding him to the Tower for an hour, and then by strong hands putting him into stocks for refusing to provide them Commons. Instead of submitting, the young gentlemen came up to the Benchers' table and demanded repeal of the said disorder. Being fairly treated by the Masters, they went to their places, but came up again, telling the Bench they had given them time, and with insolent speeches pressed for the repeal. This being denied, they hasted down tumultuously, and calling for pots threw them at random towards the Bench table, and struck divers Masters. Of this notorious outrage, the like whereof had not previously been known in any Inn of Court, the Masters complained to the Lord Chief Justice, who convented Deyer, Lisle, Oglander, and Turner, the most forward, before him, and, assisting himself with Justices Whitelocke and Harvey, committed Deyer and Oglander to the King's Bench Prison, and bound Lisle and Turner to good behaviour. The Masters intended to proceed by expulsion, but being moved by the Justices, and the four above named having exhibited a petition, they are content to remit their fines, and receive them into Commons. They damn their order, and doom their book to the fire, ordering it hereafter to be ipso facto expulsion for any one to claim any power to govern otherwise than as subordinate to the orders of the Bench."

Failure of Utter Barristers to perform both their assignments noted.

"No one or more Masters of the Bench to have power to intermeddle concerning the rights, etc., of the House in Vacation, or otherwise."

Petition of William Davies, the Church Clerk. Restored.

Parliament, 29 April, 1631. Mr. Thomas Warre fined £5, etc., "for breaking the head of John Francis, a Washpot, with a Temple pot."

(a) John Lisle, the regicide. See Notable Middle Templars, p. 146.

Mr. Southcott submitted, and brought in his fine of £5 for "breaking the head of Henry Arnott, Porter." Mitigated.

Parliament, 20 May, 1631. Arrears of Commons.

Committees appointed for rebuilding the old building on the south side of Elm Court to confer with Inner Temple "touching the ruinous chambers over the Church Porch."

Parliament, 17 June, 1631. "To prevent the trouble of coaches in Middle Temple Lane, the Porter shall keep one of the leaves of Middle Temple Gate closed, and attend to open it for carriages for the use of this House and the Inner Temple."

"The new buildings in Inner Temple Lane near the Church to be finished by Michaelmas Term."

20 June, 1631. Dr. Micklethwaite. Ordered by the Master of the Bench, in performance of their part of the motion and request of the Lords (a) upon the hearing at the Council Chamber, "that the Steward shall offer him all the arrears of the Parson's roll, not mentioning any right thereof or gratuity. If he shall challenge it as due, or as his right, the Steward shall bring it back again."

Parliament, 24 June, 1631. Essex Court mentioned.

Suit against Mr. Wynnington mentioned.

Mr. Robert Tanfield nominated Treasurer. (b)

Mr. Thos. South, son of Mr. South, Treasurer, admitted specially. No fine.

Parliament, 8 Oct., 1631. Frederick, tenth son of Sir Laurence Hyde, a Master, admitted specially. No fine.

Accounts of South, Treasurer, allowed, and ordered to be entered.

Mr. Humfrey Howorth fined £5, "being charged to have gone down to the Larder in his cloak and with his sword, and there attempted to take away a pasty of venison from the Readers' Steward, which being denied him, contending for it, was broken in pieces. Whereupon he struck the Steward with his sword in the scabbard, and that in the same Reading while the Hall was serving he came down to the Kitchen and violently took from the Cook, Commons, etc., provided by the Reader for the Hall, and carried them to his chamber," etc.

Order (a) for not standing at the Cupboard when appointed by the Bench, during Reading times, repeated.

Parliament, 25 Nov., 1631. . Christmas not to be kept grandly.

Commons continued to next Term. Sole power of ordering the time of Christmas has undoubtedly belonged to the Bench. Recital of the past. This right has been questioned by some young gentlemen. The Masters make special Orders, seven in number, inter alia—"No play to be used during time of divine service. No wine or tobacco to be sold, nor any healths drank, or tobacco taken in the Hall. No unworthy persons to frequent the Hall, or use gaming there, or in any room of the House. None but gentlemen of this Society to be allowed to keep any box." (b)

Great sums due to the Brewer.

Mr. Humfrey Howorth restored on payment of fine and his arrears.

Parliament, 10 Feb., 1631-2. Notwithstanding the orders of 25 Nov., 1631, (c) concerning Christmas time, "the Masters of the Bar assembled with the young gentlemen in the name of a Parliament, and made an order in special cases to drink healths, with loud music, expressly against the said Orders." Fines inflicted.

the Masters of the Bench, reproved the action of the gentlemen concerned, and proposed that the Bench should devise some way of paying." The Bench order "that a new levy be made, every Bencher 20s., Barrister 14s., and every other 8s." This levy, made at the mediation of the above, "shall not be drawn into a precedent."

As the Plague continues, no Reading this summer. Mr. (Richard) Lane, the Prince's Attorney, nominated Treasurer.

Parliament, 13 Oct., 1637. Mr. Tanfield and Mr. Lane appointed "Committees" to join with two Benchers of the Inner House "to compose differences present and future."

Mr. Lane confirmed Treasurer.

Parliament, 27 Oct., 1637. Old buildings, and the danger thereof between Pump Court, Elm Court, Vine Court, and Middle Temple Lane. Committee to consider rebuilding, to treat with gentlemen chambered therein for "moving their things and bringing in money for the work," etc.

Dr. Micklethwaite. Five bills of the Joiner, Carver, and Painter, Free-mason, Smith, and Upholsterer for removing the Communion Table, the Pulpit, and other alterations in the Church, and utensils thereof, amounting to £90. 9s. 11d., delivered by Dr. Micklethwaite, read and ordered "not to be paid." Address to be made to the Lord Keeper (a) "to inform him as Visitor of the Church of the Doctor's behaviour therein, and also in locking the Church door, and to pray him for relief." To ask the Inner Temple to join.

Upon request of the Inner Temple "to have the post sett up and usually kept locked at the greate gate of the Middle Temple in order to keep coaches out of the said Middle Temple Lane (removed)," the same ordered to be removed. "Porter to attend more diligently and keep out strangers' coaches," etc.

Parliament, 24 Nov., 1637. Christmas not to be kept "grandly." Commons continued. A cartload of coals and 40s. for the Minstrels allowed (as in former years), and £3 for Officers' Commons. Gentlemen in Commons "have no power to suspend or evil intreat Officers." Moderate exceedings ("Apparels") provided, but Commons not to exceed 15s. a man weekly, etc. No play during Divine Service. "No wine

(a) The distinction between gaming and dicing here is difficult to understand. Perhaps the order was only aimed at outsiders—unworthy persons.

(b) "Richard" in Inner Temple Records, ii. p. 246.

(c) His appointment was confirmed on the 12th following.

Parliament, 28 June, 1639. Commons, non-payment of, according to Orders, a list of Members put out of Commons for non-payment of the amounts owing, is set out.

Mr. (Richard) Townsend nominated Treasurer. (a)

Parliament, 25 Oct., 1639. "In consideration of the high rate of Commons, which is likely to grow, and conceiving one great cause to be the liberty which gentlemen take to carry breakfasts, commons, bread, beer, pots, and other things to private chambers, and their disorderly serving themselves at the dresser, etc., contrary to ancient usage," orders made. Also for regulation of Commons' rate of payment, etc.

Parliament, 22 Nov., 1639. "Whereas the many good acts made for regulating Christmas time, the licentious expensiveness of some exceeds all reasonable limits, whereby, etc., and make many debts on poor people unpaid, etc., and other disorders, etc., in later years have more and more crept in, and have grown to such a height that the misgovernment of these times is become a public scandal, whereof the Judges and State take notice," etc., no Christmas shall be held in this year within the House at all. The Company shall dissolve, Commons break up, and Hall doors be locked, etc.

Parliament, 24 Jan., 1639-40. "Notwithstanding the order of 22 Nov., divers of the Society, with their swords drawn, in a riotous manner assembled on St. Thomas's Eve, broke open the doors of the Hall Buttery and Kitchen, and set up Commons and Play in the Hall contrary," etc. William Llander was a principal actor, and took the office of Treasurer of the Bar, Mr. Nicholas Lechmere (b) Treasurer under the Bar. Many others named. These with others continued to keep Christmas, etc., until they were convented before the Lord Chief Justice, and were commanded by him by His Majesty's special order, etc., "to conform to orders."

All fined, Llander forty marks, the others twenty each.

Officers of the House aiding, one discharged, and the others fined.

Parliament, 26 Nov., 1641. Committee appointed to report on the petition of gentlemen chambered in Essex Court, "to have a passage from the said Court through the house called the Palgrave's Head." Ordered "to be made at the charge of the owners of the house, subject to the orders of this House."

"All Orders made in Parliament to be drawn up by the Under Treasurer, shown to Mr. Treasurer, and presented at the next Parliament."

Parliament, 28 Jan., 1641-2. "Acknowledgment of the love towards the Society of Robert Ashley, (c) one of the most ancient of the Masters of the Utter Bar, shown by his leaving to the Society his books, and £300 for a Librarian." His Will is ordered to be copied into the Parliament Book.

[The Will here follows quaintly expressed.]

"For the said £300 paid into the Treasury on 30 Nov. the House shall allow £8 per cent. interest a year, and the Under Treasurer to have the £300 in part of his debt."

Parliament, 7 Feb., 1641-2. Messrs. Ralf Freman and Sawyer expelled. "Freman called William Peele, a seller of brushes, into his chamber in Vine Court, and after buying some wares, Sawyer by threatening to cut Peele's throat forced him to utter divers profane speeches against his will and conscience. Meanwhile Freman kept the door shut. When Peele made known his ill-usage, he was threatened by them to be pumped on, etc., and to be cut to pieces."

(c) The original Order relates to Bench Chambers, but is not mentioned under date 27 Nov., 1702.

Book H 8, continuing the Records, begins with :—

Parliament, Jan., 1703, and is carefully Indexed.

This Volume covers the period down to 1747, and therefore includes the record previous to "Master Worsley's Book," the work of one who was Treasurer in 1733, which was distributed by the Society in 1896, intituled "Observations on the Constitution of the Middle Temple, originally written in the year 1733 for the use of Charles Worsley, Esq., then Treasurer, by William Downing, Steward." The Editor of that edition of the work in 1896 gives his reasons for contesting the claim of Downing to be the author, and for continuing the appellation of the book by its familiar title of "Master Worsley's Book," by which it has long been known.

[From this time Books of Accounts comprising both receipts and payments by way of Debtor and Creditor, begun by John Malet, Under Treasurer, are kept contemporaneously with the usual account. Those previously were books of payments only, with items "Receipted" in most instances by the persons to whom sums were paid, and therefore called "Receipt Books." They gave in the early pages some memoranda of sums received for admissions, etc. The new books of Debtor and Creditor Account were not invariably cast and balanced. They are not limited to one year, but extend over several Treasurerships. John Dowding and J. Malet (or Mallett) became Under Treasurers in succession.]

PROCEEDINGS BETWEEN DR. MICKLETHWAITE AND THE TEMPLES.

EXTRACTED FROM THE RECORDS OF THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

COUNCIL REGISTER. Charles I., Vol. IX.

P. 660.

An order of Reglement between the two Temples and M<sup>r</sup> Dr. Micklethwayte.

At the Starr Chamber, the 16th of May, 1634.

Present.

Lo. Archb. of Cant.	Ea. Marshall.
Lo. Archb. of York.	Ea. of Dorset.
Lo. Cottington.

WHEREAS an humble petition hath heretofore ben preferred to his Ma<sup>tie</sup> by Paul Micklethwayte, Dr. in Divinitie, his Ma<sup>ties</sup> Chaplaine, and M<sup>r</sup> of the Temple touching some differences concerning the Mastership of that place, the consideracion whereof it pleased his Ma<sup>tie</sup> to referr to the Lord Archb. of Cant., his grace Lo. Archb. of York, his grace Lo. Treasurer, Earl Marshall, Earl of Dorsett and the Lord Cottington, Their lordshipps haveing taken paines therein and maturely weighed the merittes of the cause, have ordered that the Articles hereafter following agreed upon by the consent of both parties, should be entered into the Register of Councill causes, for the finall ending of all differences in point of profit betweene the parties.

First, That the Roules (a) of 18d. per annum of every gent. in either Societie should be paid to the Master of the Temple and his successors to the full value, according to the Roules, to be shewed to the said M<sup>r</sup> when he shall require it.

Secondly, The precedent Rentes and future Improvements of the Chambers whereof the precedent Masters of the Temple have had the possession, or Rentes to be collected by the Officers of either Societies, (if the said Societies severally please,) to be by the said officers paid over to the M<sup>r</sup> of the Temple, for the tyme being, provided alwayes that the said Societies respectively (if they severally please) shall have the disposing of the said Chambers and government of them that shalbe placed therein. P. 661.

(a) i.e. Rolls. A Roll of names of Members contributing was made on this and similar occasions of the amounts to be collected.

Thirdly, That the M<sup>r</sup> for the Mansion, which by his late Ma<sup>ties</sup> letters Patents the Societies are to provide for him, shall have the Lodging heretofore allowed to Mr. Masters, (a) and shall likewise have the Lecturer's lodgings lately built upon the Church by Mr. Crashawe, untill for the beautifying or more convenient repaire of the Church it shall be thought fitt to be taken downe, with the rest of the Chambers which deface the beautie of the Church, and putt out the Lights thereof.

Fourthly, The offerings of every Communion, the Bread and Wine being discharged, should be the M<sup>r</sup>.

Fifthly, The rates of the burials should continue, as they were valued by his immediate predecessors and continued by the present M<sup>r</sup>.

Sixthly, That the M<sup>r</sup> of the Temple in officiateing the Church and preaching, should performe that duty either by himselfe, or an other, which the Canons of the Church of England and his Patent require.

Lastly, That all arrearages being behinde and unpaid during the tyme of theise differences, should be paid.

DR. MICKLETHWAITE'S SECOND PETITION TO THE KING IN PRIVY COUNCIL.

EXTRACTED FROM THE RECORDS.

COUNCIL REGISTER. Charles I., Vol. XV.

Order in the difference between those of the Societies of the Temple and Dr. Micklethwaite. Whereas some differences betweene those of the Societies of the two Temples London and Dr. Micklethwaite, Master of the Temple, concerning the Mastership of that place were upon a reference from his Ma<sup>ties</sup> to some Lordes Members of this Boord by Articles dated the 16th of May 1634 formerly ordered and settled. And whereas an humble petition hath been since presented to his Ma<sup>tie</sup> by the said Doctor Micklethwaite touching other differences, as concerning consecrated places belonging to the Temple Church and other things pretended to bee appertayning to the said Church or place and needing redresse there. After long debate and hearing of the Councell on both sides, it was ordered (his Ma<sup>tie</sup> present in Councell), that whatsoever is due by the said Articles ordered the 16th of May 1634 and all the Arreres thereof (if any bee) shalbee forthwith duely paid to the said Master by each of the said Societies respectively, to which the Councell and some of the cheife of the Members of the said Societies here present at the hearing readily consented. P. 220.

(a) The preceding Master.

And as concerning the other differences between the said parties in the Petition mencioned, other then the point of Visitacion, which was not insisted upon, it was ordered that his Ma<sup>ties</sup> learned Councell which are not of either of the said Societies, nor were of Councell of either side at the hearing, shall at the first conveniency after this Terme appoint the said Doctor Micklethwaite (a) and some of the other side a certaine time for hearing the said differences and shall prepare the same in such a way as may best ripen the said matters in question and make them ready and fit for the further hearing and finall determinacion of his Ma<sup>tie</sup> and this Boord.

PROCEEDINGS ARISING OUT OF THE LORD MAYOR'S
VISIT TO THE TEMPLE, 3 MARCH, 1668-9.

PRIVY COUNCIL REGISTER. Charles II., Vol. VIII.

P. 239.

At the Court at Whitehall, the 24th of March, 1668-9.

Difference between the Lord Mayor and Templars touching the Right of Privilege in the Inner Temple left to Law, and the Persons which offered Indignitys to the Lord Mayor to attend Wensday next.

Whereas his Majesty was pleased to appoint this day to heare in Councill the complaints of the Lord Mayor of the Citty of London touching a late Ryot in the Inner Temple and Affronts offered by some Gentlemen of that House, his Lordship being invited to dyne there with the Reader, And in obedience thereunto the Recorder of the said Citty with some of the Aldermen and some of the Gentlemen attending, and being called in and heard by Councill learned, and the Right and Priviledge of bearing up the Lord Mayors Sword within the Precincts of the Temple, being asserted on behalf of the Citty and denyed by the Gentlemen of the Temple, the same was left to be decided by due Proceedings of Law in the Courts of Westminster Hall, And there being at the same time several affidavits read of personal Indignitys offered to the Lord Mayor by Mr. Hodges a Gentleman of the Inner Temple; It was thereupon Ordered, That the said Mr. Hodges do make his

(a) On the death of Dr. Micklethwaite in 1639 these proceedings dropped, though steps had been taken and meetings held in pursuance of the Order.

Appearance at this Boord on Wednesday the 31st instant. And it being further alleaged, That the Lord Mayor's Officers who attended him at the Temple were threatned with the Pump and to be throwne over the Wall into the Thames, It was likewise Ordered by his Majesty, That there be time given till this day Senight to make out Proofes thereof upon Oath, and that the same be brought in so timely to the Clerke of the Councill attending, that the Persons concerned may have Copies thereof and attend with their Answer on Wensday next.

PRIVY COUNCIL REGISTER. Charles II., Vol. VIII.

At the Court at Whitehall, the 31st of March, 1669.

- P. 248. Lord Mayor and the Templars Whereas upon reading to the Boord to be heard the 7th of April. severall Affidavits of Personall Indignitys offered to the Lord Mayor of London by Mr. Hodges, a Gentleman of the Inner Temple, It was the 24th instant Ordered That Mr. Hodges should attend this day, And it being represented to the Boord That the said Mr. Hodges being in the Circuit with the Judges could not have notice timely enough to give his Attendance according to the said Order, It was thereupon Ordered by his Majesty in Councill, That the said Mr. Hodges and also Mr. Mundy and Mr. Wyn, against whom there are likewise Informations exhibited, and all other Persons concerned, do make their personall Appearance at this Boord on Wensday the 7th of Aprill next, when the said Busines wilbe taken into Consideration.

PRIVY COUNCIL REGISTER. Charles II., Vol. VIII.

Lord Mayor and the Templars. Whereas it was ordered the 31st of March last That the Complaints of the Lord Major of the City of London Concerning personall Indignities Offered to his Lordship and his Officers when he was lately invited to dyne with the Reader of the Inner Temple, should this day have a further Hearing, And that Mr. Hodges, Mr. Wyn and Mr. Mundy, Gentlemen of the Inner Temple, against whom particular complaint was made, should Appeare at the Board, When accordingly they Attending, and both Parties being called in, and Heard by their Councill Learned, and Affidavits haveing been read against the said Three Persons, accusing them to have been the Principall Actors in that Disorder, to which they haveing made their Defence, And haveing presented severall Affidavits to justify their Carriage that day, though they could not extenuate the faults of others who in the Tumult affronted the Lord Major and his Officers; And the Officer of the Lord Major who was Alledged to have been Affronted in the Tumult, did not Charge it upon any of these Particular Persons. Upon Consideration whereof it Appearing to his Majesty that the Matter Depending very much on the Right and Priviledge of bearing up the Lord Maior's Sword within the Temple, which by Order of this Board on the 24th of March last, is left to be Decided by due Proceedings of Law in the Courts of Westminster Hall, His Majesty therefore thought fitt to suspend the Declaration of his Pleasure thereupon untill the said Right and Priviledge shall accordingly be Determined at Law.

STATE PAPERS, DOMESTIC, Charles II., Volume 257, No. 157.

In this Question Betweene the Temple and the City there are twoe things consid'able :

1. The right p'tended to on each side.
2. The way and meanes of asserting that right.
1. As to the point of Right these things may bee fitt to bee considered :
  1. What is not the Question.
  2. What the grounds are vpon which the Temple claime to bee Exempted from the Jurisdiccōn of the City.
  3. Vpon what grounds the City doe oppose that Claime.
  4. The greates Inconueniences of the Priviledge of the Temple bee not in some measure continued.
  5. The no inconvenience to the City by the Continuance of it.
1. First then it is not the Question whether the Temple bee in London, that is confest of all hands, much lesse is it a Question of p'sonall respect or disrespect to the Lord Maior and Aldermen that now are, for never was the City gou'ned by a Maior and Aldermen more knowne and better respected then everie one of theis are, but the true Question is whether the Temple though in London bee not a place exempted from their Jurisdiccōn as many other places in London heretofore were, and as att this day some are, viz. St. Martins le grand, etc.
2. Now the Temple Conceiue themselves to bee Exempted vpon these groundes :
  1. They doubt not to proue that the soyle wherevpon the Inner Temple and most parte of the Midle Temple stands was auncientlie exempted when it was in the possession of the Knights Templers.
  2. That by their dissolucon it came to Thomas Earle of Lancaster & Leicester as belonging to the hon<sup>r</sup> of Leycester and continued exempted till by Act of Parliament it was settled on the Hospitallers.
  3. Whoe held it exempted till the dissolucōn.
  4. That by the dissolucōn of Monasteries it came to the Crowne and continued there as a separte Franchise till the Patent of 6 Jacobi.
  5. That by the Pattent of King James the soyle is now granted away with gen<sup>all</sup> words sufficient to reuiue and continue All auncient . . .
  6. That Accordinglie the Temple hath enjoyed this priviledge ever since the dissolucōn of Monasteries though all occacōns of bringing this point into Question haue been avoided on both sides asmuch as might bee.

7. That in the late times when the gou<sup>r</sup>ment was by an Army and great Courtshipp made to the City, yet they were never suffered to exercise any kind of authority in the Temple.
3. The reasonableness of this will better appeare if it bee consid<sup>r</sup>ed vpon what grounds the City Claime a Jurisdictiō in the Temple which are very weake for :
  1. The City haue noe Charter which by any expresse words putte this place vnd<sup>r</sup> their power and the meer scituacō in London will not doe it if there bee a right of exempcō.
  2. They haue expresse words in the Charter granted by King James, by which Coleherbert Smithfeild Blackfryers and Whitefryers are added to their Jurisdictiō, which shews that without those speciall words the exempcōs which the auncient Monasteryes enioyed had still continued.
  3. That which is yet more remarkable is that the Patent granted by King James to the City of London beares date 14 daies after the grante made to the Temple, and therefore noe gen<sup>r</sup>all words in the City Charter can subiect the Temple, which was exempted before.
4. The Inconueniences were insupportable if there should bee a right in the City of Jurisdictiō in the Temple.
  1. Where the City haue a right of Jurisdictiō, they may by Act of Comon Councell impose Taxes, make parish officers, Scavengers, etc.
  2. If the City haue Jurisdictiō in the Temple, a Plaint entered in the Counter without his Mat<sup>ies</sup> writt wilbee a sufficient warrant to arreast a man in the Temple. Then can noe debtor in a long vacacō come to a Lawyers Chamber for Councell.
  3. Noe Lawyer can sitt safe in his Studie, for hee by his profession is bound to keepe his Chamber doore open, and then any Citty officer may come and fetch him out of his study and carry him to Prison.
  4. Many Lawyers are trusted with keepeing of the Evidences of diu<sup>r</sup>se gentle. But if the Citty haue a Jurisdictiō, they may by a p<sup>r</sup>tended Execueō in a Long vacacō take all the bookes and Truncks in a Lawyers Chamber, and soe many may come to loose their Evidences.
  5. This att last must dissolue the Societies of the Temples and cause all Students to admitt themselues or Lincolnes Inne or Grayes Inne out of my Lord Maiors Reach.
5. The City suffers noe Inconuenience by the continuance of this priuiledge, for
  1. 'Tis not a Priuiledge ag<sup>t</sup> his Mat<sup>ies</sup> Writt nor against any Comands of the greate seale, but onely ag<sup>t</sup> the Serieants Baylyffes and officers of the Counter.

2. Ever in these cases it is familiar vpon due Applicacōn made & leaue obtained to Connive att the proceedings.
  3. Where leave cannot bee had to doe that, yet a Processe of outlary is never resisted for that is his Ma<sup>ties</sup> suite and containes in itselfe a non omittas propter aliquam libertatem, soe the Creditor is att noe greate delay.
  4. If it bee said that sometimes Banckrupts are sheltered here, that may bee said aswell against the Libertie of St. Martins le grand and indeed against all Liberties. But 'tis denied that ever there were 3 cases of that nature, for vpon Informacōn to the Benchers that they are noe members of this Societie they are vsually deli'u'd vp.
- Soe 'tis Conceiued upon the whole matter that the Claimes made by the Temple to this Priuiledge are either very Justifiable or att least very excusable.
2. In the last place as to the waies and meanes which haue been vsed in asserting this right, it is humbly praied
    1. That the right itselfe may not receiue any preiudice or dimin[ucōn] by any ill circumstance in the defence of it.
    2. If any thinge haue beene done ag<sup>t</sup> the Lawe of Hospitality or good manners, they beg pardon for it with all the Submissi[on] that can bee but they hope the contrary will appeare and that my Lord Maior had notice, the Ceremony was not adiusted and was desired to stay away.
    3. Most of the persons who are now Summoned are perfectlie innocent, know nothing of the matter before it begun did litle or nothing in it when it was begun, and are onely guiltie of not taking part against a Collegiat societie into which they stand soe lately admitted.
    4. All of them doe most humbly cast themselues att his Ma<sup>ties</sup> feet and pray they may not bee looked on as Contemnners of his Authority, in defence of which they are ready to sacrifice their liues.

Defence of the Gentlem<sup>n</sup> Templers in their dispute wth the Lord Mayor
 March 23, 68-9.

STATE PAPERS, DOMESTIC, Charles II., Volume 257, No. 158.

(Calendar = Notes [by Williamson].)

Difference between the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> & the Templers; At Councill Board. 24 Mar. 1668-9. (a)

The Templers.

[Tha]<sup>t</sup> a great Riott has been made in the Inner Temple, that his Ma<sup>ty</sup> had appointed to examine it this day.

(a) Added by another hand.

The summons read und<sup>r</sup> L. K. hand.

. . . nd<sup>r</sup>.

L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> the plaintiffe ag<sup>t</sup> severall Gentlemen of the Inner Temple, that appere, and some that doe not.

The occasion is told—

That in the comeing to dine, the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup>s swordbearer had the sword seized in going up to the Hall, crying Downe wth it, downe wth it the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> retired to Mr. Philipps chamb<sup>r</sup> to see if it would bee appeased.

was pursued thither wth tumult and derision.

that Mr. Hodges particularly used uncivill language to the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup>, called him Mr. Mayo<sup>r</sup>, etc., repeated Mr. Mayo<sup>r</sup> twice or thrice, etc.

L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> attempting to returne, the Gentlemen Mr. Hodges being the principall, layd handes on the sword, crying downe wth it, indeav<sup>red</sup> to breake the sword. About sup<sup>r</sup>time they came downe, crying A Hall, A Hall, & saying he should not carry it up, threatened some of his serv<sup>ts</sup> wth the Pompe, to throw them over into the water.

[Co]mplaint.

1. of the affronts used to the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> and his authority in his sword, etc.

2. a great Riott ag<sup>t</sup> the Peace committed there w<sup>ch</sup> by authority of that sword he might have resisted by force.

Ayloff, wee complaine—

1. That My L<sup>d</sup> Mayo<sup>r</sup> rep<sup>r</sup>senting his Ma<sup>ty</sup>s authority has suffered a great affront, and my Qu. is—whether My L<sup>d</sup> Mayo<sup>r</sup> may carry up his sword in the Inner Temple.

2. If he cannot yet a Riott and medley was comitted by the act<sup>rs</sup> of that tumult.

To cry to the Pump to his offic<sup>ers</sup>.

To threaten to throw them into the Thames are matters worth his Ma<sup>ty</sup>s exaico<sup>n</sup>. etc.

Whether he may carry his sword up & if he bee a Magistrate there.

The Templers.

Mr. Offley.

He is Councell for some Gentlemen charged to be guilty of a Riott in the Iner Temple.

1. As to the Riott—being in a crowd.

Mr. Hodges is absent.

Those here knew nothing. Some stand by at the hearing desires this time to ans<sup>w</sup>.

2. As to the right whether the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> may carry up the sword. that from 18 H. I. to 6 K. Iames these priviledges have ever been confirmed & un but the particular searches have not yet been made.

L. Keeper.

The Right is left to Westminster Hall.

But there are two things—

1. a disturbance of the Peace.

that it be enquired into even tho' the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> had no right.

There may be a right in capital causes as Treasons and Murders and the Templers not having offic<sup>s</sup> to execute Iustice.

That the charge must be layd ag<sup>t</sup> the persons who it was—it must not be in generall.

Mr. Hodges was the cheefe.

Mr. Kerle.

He was at the Deliberacōn of the Masters demand of receiving the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup>.

it was doubted as to the sword.

a certaine person was desired to deale wth the Gentlemen to moderate the matt<sup>r</sup> and p<sup>r</sup>vent disturbances.

Next day a Messeng<sup>r</sup> from the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> brought word to the Temple that the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> had the Read<sup>r</sup> after deliberacōn answ<sup>d</sup> that he was sorry for it, and desired they would know that if they came, he would not secure them ag<sup>t</sup> a disturbance.

After that a Gentleman was sent to say if the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> could not come the Ald. w<sup>ld</sup> come.

He brought word they would come & wth the sword.

He observes.

1. They were invited to dinner.

2. They replied to come wth the sword.

3. The Templers s<sup>d</sup> they could not secure it from disturbance.

4. The Templer sends a 2<sup>d</sup> Invitation that the Aldermen w<sup>ld</sup> come onely, the first being out of dores.

L. K.

The Qu. is whether the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> was affronted or not.

Of this there is prooffe und<sup>r</sup> affidavits.

Mr. Offley.

The Qu. is as to the 4 Gentlemen now before the King.

L. Ashley.

This was in defence of a lawfull righte & to p<sup>r</sup>uent bringing this into precedent.

L. K.

The matter of right ought to be determined, but that is not of this place.

and the citty may by Information proceed in the K<sup>s</sup> Bench.

But as to personall affronts to L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> as Mr. Mayo<sup>r</sup>, etc. etc.

M.T.R.—PREL.

Q

Mr. Offley (struck out).

Affidavit read ag<sup>t</sup> Hodges of Wingsop.

that he called him Mr. Mayo<sup>r</sup>.

that he called him Mr. Mayo<sup>r</sup> severall times notwithstanding he was rebuked, etc.

Mr. Hodges to be called this day sevensnight.

Copies of all affidavits to be actually communicated.

Further time to gett proofes of the affronts, etc.

L. K.

He does not thinke any Information will proceed.

That Hodges may goe to the Gatehouse for a night and it is likely the L. Mayo<sup>r</sup> will beg his liberty and so not to rake further into the matter.
